

Replica Watch Recognition Guide

Contributed by Richard Brown
Last Updated Tuesday, 27 June 2006

The next book in the Replica Watch Report series is currently being worked on. The book is titled: The Replica Watch Recognition Guide. While the original Replica Watch Report focuses on presenting detailed information on each watch the goal of the Recognition Guide is to provide a snapshot of information on a large number of models. Each watch will be represented by one large high resolution picture and descriptive text. Icons will show each watches movement (Asian, ETA, etc) and major flaws.

Because of the narrower focus I'm hoping to have 100 different watches represented in the Recognition Guide, making it the largest single source of information on replica watches. An example page of the current beta Guide can be downloaded here.